

System Administrators

System Administrators in the context of these use cases are technical staff who manage servers, their operating systems, and applications closely associated with the operating system or server platform. In larger organizations, this role is different from the Application Administrators, who deploy, administer, and troubleshoot applications. In smaller organizations, the system administrator and application administrator roles are frequently merged.